What is ParentsNext?

ParentsNext is a pre-employment program that assists parents with young children to identify their education and employment goals, develop a pathway to achieve their goals and link them to activities and services in the local community.

Since April 2016 ParentsNext has been operating in 10 locations around Australia. ParentsNext project providers operate at a local level and have strong connections with community organisations, they deliver tailored assistance which varies depending on the needs of each parent and their family.

ParentsNext has made a deep and positive impact on the lives of many parents and young children. Feedback from both participants and providers has been extremely positive. Parents are receiving the support and guidance they need to find their pathway into employment.

National Expansion

From 1 July 2018 ParentsNext will be expanded nationally. The national rollout will consist of two streams.

More intensive ParentsNext

The more intensive ParentsNext stream will operate in 30 locations, the 10 current locations and 20 further locations selected due to the high proportion of Indigenous parents in receipt of Parenting Payment.

This stream will have a stronger emphasis on getting parents into work, by providing connections to pre-employment training, mentoring, work experience, wage subsidies, and job opportunities.

ParentsNext providers will be expected to deliver assistance appropriate for Indigenous parents including a high level of community engagement.

Funds will be made available to providers to assist parents by paying for services such as mentoring, training, post-placement support, work related assistance, non-vocational assistance and participant support.

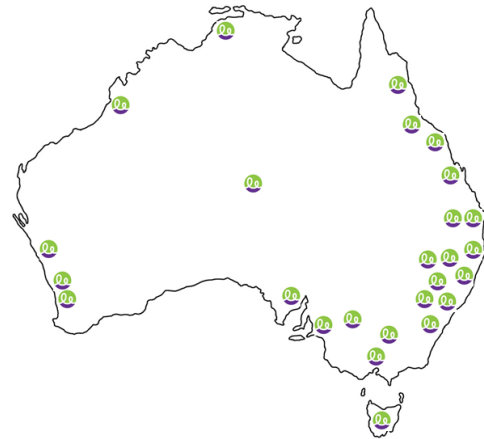

Providers will be eligible for education and/or employment outcome payments when a parent completes education courses or gains sustainable employment.

Targeted ParentsNext

The targeted ParentsNext stream will assist the most disadvantaged parents and will operate in all 51 employment regions covered by jobactive (except where the intensive stream is operating).

Parents eligible for the targeted ParentsNext will receive tailored assistance to identify education and employment goals, develop a pathway to reach those goals and connect with local services in their local community.
